

IMAGINE EUROPE: AN OPEN SEMINAR

ORGANIZED BY THE PARTICIPATORY COMMUNICATION RESEARCH (PCR) SECTION OF THE INTERNATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR MEDIA AND COMMUNICATION RESEARCH (IAMCR)

Date: Thursday, 19 October 2017, 1.30-3.00 PM

Location: Byens Hus, Roskilde, Denmark

Admission: Free. Registration required. All are welcome.

CARD GAME WORKSHOP

“Playing for Integration”,
by Anne Fox & Line Mark Rugholt

Fox and Rugholt invite you to play a version of George Simons’ Diversophy cross-cultural card game. The Diversophy cross cultural training game has been used over many years to prepare employees and individuals about to be sent on assignment in different cultures. This workshop is the outcome of this adaptation made to fit the context of meetings between Danish residents and newly settled refugees.

PARTICIPATORY THEATRE WORKSHOP

“Forum Play on Cross-Cultural Communication Challenges”, by Birgitte Ravn Olesen and a group of refugees

In this workshop, the performing group invites participants to a search for possible ways to handle communication challenges experienced by the group themselves. The workshop is based on Augusto Boals, ‘Theatre of the oppressed’, which is a method to “discuss in praxis”, that is to try different ways of acting in order to find ways to shake or transform the presented communication challenges.

ABOUT THE SEMINAR

The Imagine Europe seminar gathers participants interested in discussing and experimenting with participatory and creative methods, with the aim to articulate, explore, and create knowledge and perspectives on the contemporary, so-called European ‘crisis’.
